

MA in War, Culture & History

Centre for the Cultural History of War,
Imperial War Museum North & the Media Centre

The 20th Century was the most violent period in history.

Modern technologies, old and new ideologies, infect the struggle for power and strain regard for other people's lives. We continue to live in an age where violence is sanitised by the rhetoric of friendly fire, collateral damage and safe bombs.

Historians have responded.

- STUDY IMPACTS on peoples & cultures
- MAKE FILMS about war
- EXHIBIT WORKS at Imperial War Museum North

